

An aerial photograph of Jakarta, Indonesia, during the golden hour of sunset. The Hotel Mulia, a tall, modern skyscraper with a distinctive white curved roof, stands prominently in the foreground. To its left is the large, circular, open-air Gelora Bung Karno Stadium. The surrounding area is a mix of greenery, smaller commercial buildings, and parking lots. In the background, the dense Jakarta skyline is visible, with numerous high-rise buildings illuminated by the warm light of the setting sun. The sky is filled with soft, orange and yellow clouds.
